- Dogs and cats have a full set of baby teeth that are replaced with adult teeth, just like humans.
- Dogs have 42 permanent adult teeth; cats have 30.
- Periodontal disease (teeth/gums) is the most common disease seen in adult dogs and cats.
- Providing your pet with good dental hygiene can add 2-4 years to its life!

- Periodontal disease causes inflammation and infection that can damage other organs including the heart, liver, and kidneys.
- Small breed dogs are more likely to have dental issues. Why? Because their teeth are often a little too large for the size of their mouths.
- The most common sign of periodontal disease is bad breath, or halitosis (aka dog breath).
